

Instructions for Marital Update of a Dependent Student

Students are not allowed to change their marital status after they initially submit their financial aid application. However, if you are a dependent student who originally filed your financial aid application with parent data and have now become married since filing your original financial aid application; contact the financial aid office to speak with a financial aid counselor.

Please note, your income and your spouse's income must be significantly less than your income and your parents' income. If not, you will add your spouse's information on the next year's financial aid application. If so, the counselor will determine if it would be in your benefit to review your financial aid application with your spouse's information instead of your parents' information for the current school year and send you an email with instructions to complete two steps. Once both steps have been completed, our office will be able to adjust your financial aid eligibility based on this new information.

Please see your campus financial aid website for contact information:

Bothell: uwb.edu/financialaid | Seattle: finaid.uw.edu | Tacoma: tacoma.uw.edu/finaid